The Karen Baldwin Research Dissertation Grant in Women’s Health
SPRING 2024 GRANT APPLICATION

The Karen Baldwin Research Dissertation Grant in Women’s Health provides financial assistance to doctoral students who have an approved dissertation proposal that is primarily focused on Women’s Health, including sexuality and gender studies. Preference will be given to students who are majoring in Health Education, Nutrition Education, Counseling Psychology or Clinical Psychology, but the grant is not limited to these majors.

Recipients will receive the award for the 2023-2024 academic year. Recipients may become eligible to be selected for the grant for up to 3 academic years, but they must re-apply each year in order to be awarded for future academic years. A reapplication for the grant does not guarantee selection of the award.

To be considered for this grant, you must meet the following criteria:

- Be a registered doctoral student for the term in which you are applying for the award
- Have an approved dissertation topic that is demonstrably related to Women’s Health with a reasonable defense timeline
- Be in good academic standing at the time of application and maintain good academic standing throughout the duration for the academic year in which the grant is awarded.

Failure to meet the aforementioned conditions will result in the cancellation of your application or award.
