Mission

The Department of Arts and Humanities is dedicated to the study of various academic and professional disciplines in an educational context. The Department's mission is two-fold: To further knowledge and learning in specific fields and to explore the purposes, practices, and processes of education both within—and across—disciplines in the Arts and Humanities.

Within the Department, individual programs preserve their own disciplinary rigor while expanding modes of inquiry, discovery, and creativity across disciplines and diverse societies and cultures. The Department is committed to understanding culture as broad and varied processes—fundamental human activities involving various modes of thinking and expression through which meaning is constructed and historically transmitted.

The Department views the study of education as broad and vital. Here, intellectual and creative ideas and practices extend beyond the traditional concerns of schooling. Thus, each program shares a concern with the learner's construction of knowledge, the art and methods of teaching, the realities of the contemporary classroom, the relationship of schools to their communities, and the underlying philosophies of school reform.

In each of the programs that prepare teachers for positions in schools and universities, there is a commitment to the education of reflective practitioners, the integration of theory and improvement of learning, as well as research and practice in the students' chosen fields of study.

Faculty share the view that informed, imaginative and critical thinking enables scholars and educators to actively shape cultural concepts of learning through education. With this in mind, the programs—both separately and together—offer students the skills and knowledge needed to thrive and assume leadership in today's changing cultural and educational environment.

Program Description

The Applied Linguistics (AL) and Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) Program provides students with a solid foundation in language so that pedagogical and research questions related to language, language use, second language pedagogy, second language acquisition, second language assessment, and TESOL adult and PK-12 education may be formulated, examined, and resolved. More specifically, the AL and TESOL Program helps students develop strategies, grounded in theory, research, and practice, to teach second and foreign languages; develop curricula; and assess language performance in a wide variety of national and international contexts. Areas include:

- Second language assessment
- Second language acquisition
- Linguistic analysis
- Second language use
- Second language instruction
- Second language literacy

The major in Applied Linguistics (AL) provides students with a solid foundation for defining and resolving questions related to the nature of language, how it is used in educational and naturalistic contexts, and how it is taught, learned, and evaluated.

The major in TESOL provides students with a solid foundation in the English language so that pedagogical and research questions related to the teaching, learning, and assessment of English as a second or foreign language (ESL/EFL) may be formulated, examined, and resolved.

Graduates from the AL and TESOL Program typically teach ESL or EFL in elementary or secondary schools, in colleges or universities, in language schools or institutes in the United States or abroad, or in businesses or international organizations. Others work for assessment companies such as ETS, Cambridge ESOL, or Pearson; publishers; or technology companies that produce ESL/EFL products. Finally, many graduates work as language program administrators or teacher educators in schools, colleges, and universities around the world.

As New York City offers one of the most diverse settings in the world for teaching ESL, the program collaborates with a number of schools in the city to provide students with opportunities to teach or do research. In addition, the AL and TESOL program sponsors the Community Language Program (CLP), a program to teach ESL and foreign languages to adults. The CLP serves as an on-site language education lab in which students enrolled in the AL and TESOL program teach the courses, help administer the program, supervise other teachers, and conduct empirical inquiry. For more information about the CLP, see the website at <http://www.tc.columbia.edu/communitylanguage/>.

Program Description

Our program acknowledges teaching and learning in broad terms spanning infancy to the elderly, in sites that include schools, universities, art colleges, museums, community centers, and international settings. We embrace a diversity of students representing cultures within and outside the United States who bring unique insights and richness to our community. Our work with students draws upon deep knowledge in the practice and history of art, design and popular culture, understanding and engagement with contemporary movements and debates, and well-grounded insights about artistic development and the worlds that contextualize individual lives. We expect that our students will be able to translate their knowledge into curricular and instructional practices that nurture human development and challenge learning across a diversity of life spans.

The program's curriculum and courses cross-pollinate theory and practice in fresh and innovative ways. Working with traditional and digital tools and materials, we foster our students' personal development as artists, researchers, reflective thinkers, and imaginative educational practitioners. To these ends we reach out to other programs in the College for the contributions of their distinctive disciplines, and we design conferences and symposia that invite individuals and groups to engage with us in dialogue on contemporary issues, cultures, and practices. We maintain a lively schedule of Macy Art Gallery exhibitions and professional development offerings each year that allows us to confront themes, ideas, and practices representing the varied worlds of art and education.

Research holds a critical and central place in our program, as faculty and students identify questions and engage problems that define our discipline today and anticipate future concerns. Working collaboratively through a series of seminars, our doctoral candidates “make new knowledge” through rigorous scholarship and critical reflection, forging new directions in the field. Our master's students and student teachers engage in classroom and other forms of grounded and action-based research and produce the kinds of insights needed to move the praxis of art education forward. Above all, we recognize that for artists and art educators, research necessitates exploring and experimenting with multiple ways of knowing and varied ways of presenting research in art and art education.

The faculty of the program are experienced practitioners who work closely with students to design individual programs that meet and support particular needs and goals. The vast cultural resources of New York City also offer students opportunities to enrich and expand their programs of study in vibrant ways.

Program Description

The program in Arts Administration focuses on the missions and activities of art and cultural agencies and institutions and promotes the educational role of the arts and artists.

The program reflects the conviction that the management of cultural institutions and enterprises is a profession that requires both creativity and commitment and that, at its best, the profession has a positive impact on the quality of artistic and social life. Arts Administration is organized in conjunction with the programs in Arts and Humanities, further reflecting the importance of the basic educational role, mission, and activities of the arts in both profit and nonprofit sectors.

In order to respond to the challenges and responsibilities facing the arts in the twenty-first century, the arts manager must have an amalgam of managerial and financial skills, a broad knowledge about artistic disciplines, an awareness of community dynamics, a commitment to education in its broadest sense, and a sensitivity to the artist and the artistic process. The essence of the program lies in its effort to provide a carefully constructed core curriculum while making available the extraordinary range of intellectual and cultural resources throughout Teachers College, Columbia University and within New York City.

The objectives of the program include the following:

- to train new leaders to manage and administer arts and cultural venues;
- to raise the standards of arts administration to a new level of social responsibility;

- to strengthen advocacy roles for artists;
- to broaden the horizons of arts educators, facilitating their interactions with the arts community;
- to give arts educators new management and administrative tools; and
- to provide theoretical and practical preparation for students whose professional objective is a career in arts administration.

Program Description

In our increasingly diverse world, the study of multiple languages-in-education is in demand. The Program in Bilingual/Bicultural Education acknowledges the need to provide students with a foundation for understanding and working with bilingual learners in diverse educational settings. Our program specializes in education that privileges language minority student populations in the U.S. and in the world.

Students who select the course of study offered by our program will be prepared to work in schools, community organizations, and international agencies as teachers, specialists, consultants, curriculum designers, and evaluators. Students may also pursue an interest in policy and research and/or continue further studies.

Through our courses, students will examine the phenomenon of multiple languages and cultures in schools, classrooms, and communities within local and global contexts. The courses will allow students to explore interests in teaching in schools where more than one language and culture are part of the curriculum, particularly within the multilingual, multicultural city schools of New York, and to explore how the local and unique situations of schools connect to those found in other parts of the world.

Furthermore, students can observe and work in enrichment language education models that will enable them to develop the understanding and working knowledge necessary to educate language minorities while working with the goal of developing proficiency in more than one language for both language-majority and -minority students. Students will examine the nature of cross-cultural understanding and knowledge, as it provides support and access for language minority school populations to respect, develop, and preserve their languages within educational settings, to develop and strengthen their identities, and to go beyond their selves to engage in the world as productive citizens. The courses will also help students explore their place within the context of the presence of multiple language and cultures in schools and communities and in promoting diversity in thinking and social justice in the U.S. and beyond.

Courses within the different departments will allow students to explore the distinction between regular general education teaching and teaching in settings where the curriculum is taught in more than one language, second language learning theory, literacy, and interdisciplinary intellectual endeavors.

Students will plan an appropriate course of study, according to their background, knowledge, and experiences and in relation to their future goals, with their advisor. Students are strongly advised to plan the whole curriculum during their first semester, so as to meet all requirements and to enjoy the multiple possible field experiences in educational settings. Students are also urged to go to the program website (<http://www.tc.columbia.edu/a&h/bilingual/>) for FAQs to explore the multiple strands available at the M.A. level, New York State requirements for certification, and distinctions in the different fields of study that might be important in the selection of the area of Bilingual/Bicultural Education as a major.

Courses of study:

Students who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents may pursue a course of study that leads to NY State certification. Grounded in disability studies in education and cultural historical activity theory, the program invites participants to learn through research in direct contact with children in schools. Teachers graduate from this program ready to teach in bilingual inclusive contexts where children with and without disabilities learn together, but can work in other contexts such as elementary classrooms, bilingual classrooms, or special education classrooms. The program in bilingual/bicultural education at TC is well established and has been successfully preparing teachers for the multilingual and multicultural educational context for decades now. The field of bilingual/bicultural education itself provides a strong understanding of second language and cultural diversity principles exploring and building on children's funds of knowledge and considering the multiple sociocultural factors that impact how children learn. A&HB 4020 Foundations of Bilingual Special Education

This course is a solid introduction to the field of special education with an added emphasis on its intersection with bilingual education. It engages students in the study of the nature, psycho-social, and educational needs of individuals across the educational lifespan with disabilities. Within this course we consider issues in special education from the historical philosophical, legal, cultural, linguistic, and ethical viewpoints, and the responsibilities of teachers and other professionals toward students with disabilities and their families. Additionally, the course offers an opportunity to analyze the research in bilingual education in relation to the complexity of the over- and under-representation of bilingual students in special education, issues in relation to differentiating cultural and linguistic-related learning variations from special education issues, and instructional implications (including assistive technology).

Review of the linguistic, socio-cultural, philosophical, political, and historical foundations that have shaped bilingual education policies, program models, and teaching and assessment practices. This course addresses both elementary and middle school/secondary education content. Analysis of how diverse bilingual education elementary and middle school program models throughout the world respond to different linguistic, social, and educational goals.

A&HB 4024 Linguistic Foundations of Bilingual/Bicultural Education

A&HB 4029 Latino Children's Literature and Literacies

Participants will become familiar with literature for children and adolescents portraying Latino/a characters and themes, with various Latino/a authors, poets and illustrators, and with resources available for educators. The course provides criteria for the selection of such literature, specifically criteria to identify cultural authenticity. The experiences provided in the course will build a foundation for developing research and practice using Latino literature to support all readers in mainstream and bilingual classrooms.

Examination of the influence of culture in the design and implementation of school instruction. Identification of salient theoretical issues related to culture and social organization as they relate to the education of ethnolinguistic and minoritized children. Exploration of the learning/teaching processes within the context of multicultural and bilingual classroom settings from a cultural perspective. Reflection upon the role of the teacher in creating cultural learning environments. Survey of research approaches which serve as tools to examine classroom interaction. Use of technology for exploring the knowledge of minoritized learners.

A&HB 4121 Bilingual/Bicultural Curriculum Design in Elementary and Middle Schools: Social Studies

Prerequisites: Proficiency in the English language and one additional language. The course focuses on three aspects addressing both elementary and middle school contexts: (a) linguistic, cognitive, developmental, and socio-cultural considerations in the design of bi/multilingual curricula; (b) exploration of bi/multilingual instructional methods and materials for use in language arts and content areas; (c) critique of current commercially prepared products.

A&HB 4133 Curriculum and Methods for Bilingual Teachers: Science

Students will read Latina narratives, read about narrative methodologies, and will do a narrative of a Latina woman.

A&HB 4150 Teacher/Educational Inquiry: Bilingual/Bicultural Education

Open only to students registered in any of the M.A. Programs in Bilingual/Bicultural Education. Program Description

Our program views dance as an essential form of embodied experience through which people imagine and create, teach and learn, shape identity and understand cultures, and communicate meaning about diverse human experiences. Our intimate community welcomes dance artist-educators who celebrate a rich variety of dance traditions and who are deeply committed to enacting the Teachers College mission to cultivate educational opportunities that are accessible, inclusive, equitable and excellent for all dance learners. Our work with doctoral students aims to critically examine historical assumptions, reflect on our current contexts, engage in collaborative dialogue, enact socially just practices, imagine future possibilities and forge new paths in dance education.

As the primary incubator for the development of dance education in PK-12 schools and universities, Teachers College has played a principal role in producing dance education leaders for over 100 years. In this tradition, the mission of the program is to educate master dance teacher educators, teachers of dance at the college level, leaders of academic and cultural arts programs, and scholars who will contribute new knowledge to the fields of dance, arts, and education. We expect that our graduates will be able to teach, transform, supervise and empower people in these contexts, as well as serve as arts leaders and policymakers while building the discipline's knowledge base through research and publication.

We believe that the multiple ways of knowing that are embedded in dance practices can serve as the bedrock for developing a research identity and for conducting multi-modal research that is convincing and transformative. Given that individualized research is at the core of the Ed.D. degree experience, students are provided with persistent support in designing and implementing a research study. Through a series of five, collaborative seminars, students are guided through the research process while also developing critical inquiry, reflection, discussion and argumentation practices that underpin qualitative, quantitative and mixed methods research processes. Courses in dance pedagogy, embodied learning, artistic development, adult learning, historical context, curriculum design, and leadership are orchestrated to develop content knowledge as well as opportunities to examine individual research interests from content-specific lenses. Performance and guided teaching seminars provide opportunities for students to engage with the vibrant dance and arts communities of NYC and beyond as they refine their research ideas.

Experienced practitioners, program faculty work closely with students to design individual interests that meet and support particular needs and goals. In generating new knowledge in the field, we believe it is important for students to engage in cross-disciplinary study with a diverse range of faculty and students from across the college. To that end, we provide thoughtful advisement in helping students strategically select four, out-of-program research methods courses as well as design an out-of-program specialization area. Degree specialization areas include: 1) Teacher Education (educating teachers) 2) Leadership and Policy, 3) Movement Science, and 4) an Interdisciplinary specialization that can be designed to combine or explore additional areas, such as cognitive science, history of education, instructional technology, neuroscience, philosophy of education, special education, spirituality: mind/body, and urban education for example.

With upcoming dance education faculty hires, the addition of the new Arnhold Institute for Dance Education Research, Policy and Leadership and the appointment of an Arnhold Research Fellow, the program ensures continual faculty attention as well as the opportunity for students to participate in consortia and professional learning events, or to obtain practical experience working on faculty projects in a dynamic dance education research community.

Program Description

MASTER OF ARTS (34 AND 38 CREDITS)

An English teacher creates contexts and opportunities for students to develop as readers, writers, speakers, and listeners, as well as the cultural knowledge and critical thinking processes that nourish and refine the arts of language. Classroom teachers of English must possess a deep understanding of the development of the arts of language, and they must be accomplished practitioners of those arts in their own intellectual and creative lives. Effective teachers must also be keen and responsive readers of their students as learners and of the obstacles that might obstruct learning in classrooms. English teachers must, therefore, function as exemplary learners in their own classrooms, committed to developing themselves as reflective, flexible, and professionally well-informed practitioners who can accommodate their instruction to serve the needs of a diverse population of students.

The M.A. programs in the Teaching of English at Teachers College are designed to prepare pre-service and in-service teachers for productive careers as exemplary instructors and leaders for the profession of English both regionally and nationally. Our programs seek a balance between strengthening and refining the disciplinary knowledge and practices of our M.A. students on the one hand, while preparing them for the pedagogical application of their knowledge in their professional practice as classroom English teachers.

Our course offerings are directly relevant to the everyday challenges of teaching English in grades 7-12. We offer a range of courses that inquire into literature, literary theory, rhetoric, and writing, along with unpacking issues related to sociocultural contexts, curriculum development, assessment, and instructional practices. Our programs are unique in the degree to which they are focused on preparing our graduates to serve as cutting edge experts in pedagogy for the English classroom, while building that expertise on their continuing study of the target disciplines of literature, composition, and the range of traditional and newer multi-literacies that define the changing field of English studies.

The Teaching of English Program offers the following M.A. degrees: Teaching of English leading toward Initial New York State Certification (38 credits), Teaching of English leading toward Professional Certification in New York State in Teaching of English (34 credits), Teaching of English INSTEP Program leading toward Professional Certification (34 Credits), and Teaching of English leading toward Transitional B Certification (35 Credits).

All courses outlined below must be taken at Teachers College. We do not accept transfer credits. During the first semester, students will be assigned an academic faculty advisor who will assist them in choosing courses. It is recommended that students studying full-time begin their coursework the summer before the academic year.

For all programs leading to teacher certification, New York State Education Department (NYSED) has teacher certification requirements that are needed for program completion and graduation which are listed in the Office of Teacher Education section of the catalog.

M.A. IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH WITH NEW YORK STATE PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATION 34 CREDITS)

This program is designed for teachers already working in the field who will not be student teaching. To earn this degree, students must complete 34 credits of coursework at Teachers College.

M.A. IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH (INSTEP PROGRAM FOR INSERVICE TEACHERS)

The 34-credit Intensive Summer Teacher Education Program (INSTEP) in the Teaching of English is offered to current inservice teachers and is conducted over three consecutive summers in New York City.

M.A. IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH (TRANSITIONAL B, 35 CREDITS)

The requirements for this program, designed exclusively for participants in the Peace Corps Fellows Program at Teachers College, are similar but not identical to the those of the 34-credit Teaching of English program and include mentored teaching.

M.A. IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH LEADING TO AN INITIAL CERTIFICATION IN NEW YORK STATE (38 CREDITS)

This program leads to initial certification and is designed for individuals who are entering the field of secondary English teaching. To earn this degree, students must complete 38 credits of coursework in the Teaching of English Program at Teachers College, including two semesters (Fall and Spring) of student teaching. Although most courses are held in the evenings, students must be available during the school day in order to student-teach.

To be certified by New York State, students must satisfy the following coursework requirements either prior to or concurrent with their enrollment in the MA program:

- 30 credits in the English or related fields. Under the general rubric of English, qualified coursework in such related fields as Drama, Journalism, Comparative Literature, Linguistics, Philosophy, Speech, Film Studies, and Classics is counted toward fulfilling this requirement. Please note that 6 of these credits can be completed as part of the requirements for the M.A. degree.
- 3 credits of foreign language. If this requirement was not fulfilled as an undergraduate, these credits may be obtained at Columbia University, Teachers College, any other accredited institution, or College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). CLEP registration forms are available in the Office of Teacher Education (Zankel 411). If you choose to take a language class as an elective toward your degree, it must be a graduate-level course.
- 3 credits of mathematics. If this requirement was not fulfilled as an undergraduate, these credits may be obtained at Columbia University, Teachers College, any other accredited institution, or College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). CLEP registration forms are available in the Office of Teacher Education (Zankel 411).
- 3 credits of science. If this requirement was not fulfilled as an undergraduate, these credits may be obtained at Columbia University, Teachers College, any other accredited institution, or College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). CLEP registration forms are available in the Office of Teacher Education (Zankel 411).

- 3 credits of history/social science, If this requirement was not fulfilled as an undergraduate, these credits may be obtained at Columbia University, Teachers College, any other accredited institution, or College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). CLEP registration forms are available in the Office of Teacher Education (Zankel 411).

In addition to all coursework required for certification, students in the M.A. program are responsible for taking and successfully passing the following Certification Examinations mandated by New York State: Academic Literacy Skills Test (ALST), Educating All Student test (EAS), Content Specialty Test (CST) in English Language Arts, and the Teacher Performance Assessment (edTPA) in Secondary English Language Arts.

MASTER OF EDUCATION (60 CREDITS)

The Master of Education (Ed.M.) degree is a 60-credit program designed for individuals interested in advanced study in the field of English Education. The Ed.M. degree is well suited for individuals who are currently teaching and who wish to concentrate their studies further within the field of English education and/or individuals who are thinking about undertaking doctoral work in English education. Individuals applying to the Ed.D. program in the Teaching of English sometimes are asked to complete the Ed.M. program before gaining admission to the Doctoral program. The Ed.M. program does not lead to certification for teaching.

DOCTORAL PROGRAM (75 and 90 CREDITS)

The English Education program at Teachers College offers three doctoral degrees: Doctor of Philosophy in English Education (Ph.D., 75 Credits), Doctor of Education in the Teaching of English (Ed.D., 90 Credits), and Doctor of Education in the College Teaching of English (Ed.D.C.T., 90 Credits). The primary purpose of the doctoral programs in English Education at Teachers College is to advance knowledge relevant to the teaching and learning of English and to prepare expert teachers of English for careers as scholars, researchers, and teacher educators in the field of English education. The doctoral programs in English Education support a wide range of interests, backgrounds, and professional ambitions in its applicants. However, all students are expected to become conversant with the principal theories, research methods, and pedagogical traditions of the field of English education. Beyond these fundamentals, students work in close consultation with faculty members to develop individualized programs of study. Applicants to the doctoral programs ordinarily possess a master's degree in English, Education, or a related field and have three to five years of prior teaching experience at the secondary school or college level.

Foundations/Breadth Requirement

Foundations courses are intended to broaden students' knowledge of the history of education, philosophies of education, and educational issues and practices beyond their particular area of concentration. All students must take at least 6 points of such courses (courses in Teachers College not designated "A&HE") in close consultation with their advisors and with the TC Office of Teacher Education (for those students enrolled in programs leading to certification). For those seeking Initial Certification (38-credit program), foundations credits must be used to meet the New York State requirements for classes in History/Philosophy of Education, Disabilities/Special Education, and Human Development/Psychology if these have not been taken in previous college-level coursework. These courses may be taken as pass/fail.

Electives

Electives provide students the opportunity to explore particular interests as they design their own programs in consultation with an academic faculty advisor. Students whose program permits room for electives may take any graduate-level courses at Teachers College or Columbia University.

Master's Seminar

All M.A. students are required to enroll in the A&HE 5590, Master's Seminar: Reflective Practice. Students in the 38-credit program enroll in A&HE 5590 the same semester they enroll in Phase 2 of A&HE 4750, Supervised teaching of English. Students in the 34-credit program enroll in A&HE 5590 during their final semester. Within the context of this course, all students work with an instructor to design and complete their master's projects.

Student Teaching

Students in the 38-credit Teaching of English program have two separate semesters of student teaching. As required by New York State, one of these experiences is in a middle school and the other is in a high school. Most placements are made in urban public schools in New York City. Commuting to one of the outer boroughs should be expected.

Student teaching experiences differ by semester. In the first (Phase 1) semester, a pair of students may be placed in a classroom under the direction of a single cooperating teacher. The cooperating teacher has primary responsibility for designing the curriculum. While students do not have the major responsibility for designing or organizing the course of instruction, they are active participants in the classroom and school communities. Although the Phase 1 experience varies, students are engaged in observation, group work with students, conferencing, and teaching. During this semester, students understand, appreciate, learn from, and coach students as readers and writers. Students begin to take over full responsibility for lessons for the purpose of benefiting from feedback and evaluation during University Supervisor visits. Later, toward the end of the Phase 1 experience, at a time mutually agreeable to both cooperating teacher and student teacher, the student teacher is expected to assume full responsibility for one class. A three to four week unit of study might be appropriate at this point.

During Phase 2 of student teaching student teachers are immersed in teaching, responsible for planning and conducting two classes, assessing student work, and participating as faculty members in the life of their school. Phase 2 student teachers do not ordinarily enroll in any academic courses except those that define and are an integral part of the student teaching experience. Hence, students enroll in A&HE 4750: Supervised Teaching of English (3 credits), A&HE 4751: Fieldwork and Observation in Secondary English (1 credit), A&HE 5204: Fieldwork Workshops in Teaching English (1 credit), and A&HE 5590: Master's Seminar: Reflective Practice(1 credit). These courses together constitute the student teaching experience in its active, creative, and reflective dimensions.

Summer INSTEP MA

Summer INSTEP M.A.

Students, all of whom are inservice teachers, complete most course requirements for the INSTEP PROGRAM (which are similar to the 34 credit M.A. program through their enrollment in an intensive three-week long summer program for three consecutive summers during which they work in a cohort of 12-15 inservice teachers for 6-8 hours each day. The program emphasizes aesthetic education through a course collaboration with Lincoln Center Educational Institute that is followed up with involvement in successive courses and the students' final research paper. Supplementary online courses for each cohort conducted during the academic year after summers 1 & 2 allow the cohorts to continue their collegial collaboration during the academic year while satisfying the few remaining requirements. See the INSTEP website for additional details and contact information.

Master of Education (Ed.M., 60 credits)

Master of Education (Ed.M., 60 credits)

The Ed.M. program is a 60-credit advanced master's program to which students may transfer up to 30 credits of prior graduate-level study. Requirements in the Ed.M. program are flexible. Aside from three required research methods courses and A&HE 5504: Research paper: Teaching of English, students select, in consultation with a faculty advisor, an array of courses that facilitate their intellectual and professional goals.

General Coursework Requirement

Depending upon the number of credits transferred in, students must complete between 15 and 45 credits at the A&HE 4000, A&HE 5000, and A&HE 6000 levels. Students transferring up to 30 credits must take most of their courses at the more advanced A&HE 5000 and A&HE 6000 levels. It is possible to substitute a 12-15 credit specialization in an area other than English Education and/or one graduate-level course at Columbia University with an academic faculty advisor's approval.

Research Methods Courses

At least 9 credits (three courses) of research methods must be completed for the Ed.M. degree. Although courses may include both quantitative and/or qualitative methods, we recommend that at least one course represent study in the area of qualitative research. At least one course should be taken from the research offerings in the English Education Program; the two other courses may be taken in any department at Teachers College.

A&HE 5504. Research paper: Teaching of English

The research paper for A&HE 5504, required of all Ed.M. students, is the core of the Ed.M. program. The purpose of this paper is to evidence the student's ability to conduct independent research. It entails work that results in an original synthesis of a broad reading of theory and research. The A&HE 5504 research paper typically includes:

- (a) A rationale for the project and demonstration of an understanding of the literature of the field related to the topic(s) undertaken;
- (b) A pilot study, including data gathering and analysis and justification of research methods employed;
- (c) A critique of the pilot study, including the student's reflections on the study's design and methodology as well as research strengths and weaknesses; and
- (d) Implications relevant to the student's future research.

Doctor of Education (Ed.D., 90 credits)

Doctor of Education (Ed.D., 90 credits)

The Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) is designed to prepare future teacher educators and education professionals who will assume teaching and professional leadership roles in English education within colleges and universities, schools and school districts, and non-profit, state, and federal educational agencies that demand advanced expertise in the teaching of the English Language Arts.

Required courses for ALL English Education/Teaching of English doctoral candidates:

- A&HE 5504 Research Paper: Teaching of English
- A&HE 6504 Doctoral Seminar: Teaching of English
- A&HE 7504 Dissertation Seminar: Teaching of English
- A&HE 8904 Dissertation Advisement in the Teaching of English
- A range of electives in literary and rhetorical studies
- Four research methods courses for a total of 12 credits. It is recommended that the candidates include at least two of the following:
 - A&HE 5149 Writing Research: Methods and Assumptions
 - A&HE 5150 Research in Practice

- A&HE 6151 Narrative Research in English Education
- A&HE 6152 Advanced Narrative Research in English Education

Students may also satisfy the requirement for research methods courses by completing approved courses in other programs and departments across the College.

Credit Requirements and Transfer Credits for the Ed.D. Program in the Teaching of English

The number of courses students must complete depends largely on the number of credits approved for transfer from previous graduate work. Students working toward an Ed.D. degree (90 credits) may transfer a maximum of 45 credits and will thus complete at least 45 credits while in the Ed.D. program.

Coursework Restrictions

An academic advisor must approve all coursework in a student's program plan, especially to ensure enforcement of the following College and Departmental policies:

- No course that is "R" (attendance) credit or that is "P" (pass/fail) may be counted toward the Ed.D. aside from A&HE 6504 and A&HE 7504.
- Students must consult their academic advisors when they undertake an independent study, an internship, fieldwork courses, or graduate courses in other colleges (usually GSAS) of Columbia University or at other universities within the Inter-University Doctoral Consortium.
- Doctoral students are generally discouraged from taking 4000-level courses and must consult with their academic advisors before registering for these courses.
- Candidates should take a minimum of three courses outside the English Education Program (Courses not designated A&HE).

Doctoral Program Milestones

Program Plan

During their first year of study, students in consultation with their advisor should complete and file with their advisor and with the Office of Doctoral Studies a program plan (the forms are available in the English Education office and in the Office of Doctoral Studies) anticipating all the courses they will need to complete within the scope of their doctoral studies. This program plan should then be reviewed annually with the student's advisor --and revised as necessary-- giving student and advisor an annual measure of the student's progress through the program.

A&HE 5504: Research Paper in the Teaching of English

Before enrolling in A&HE 5504, students must have completed at least two research methods courses, successfully completed their Certification 1 Examination, have discovered an area or problem of interest that they wish to study for their 5504 project, and have familiarized themselves with some of the available research literature on the topic or problem they propose to investigate. The research paper completed in A&HE 5504 allows a doctoral student to demonstrate the capacity to complete independent research and produce a research paper at a level of sophistication that promises success in undertaking a doctoral research project and doctoral dissertation. The completed A&HE 5504 research paper must be approved by faculty member(s) in order for the student to further progress in his or her program of study.

Certification Examinations

Certification examinations certify a student's expertise in the seminal texts, research traditions, and theoretical perspectives that represent the history of English Education as an academic discipline and that inform research in the more specialized field of study defined by a student's anticipated dissertation project. Doctoral students in English Education must pass two separate certification examinations. Examination 1 is a take-home examination, seven days in duration, covering the history of English education with a focus on one of the major curricular strands within the discipline. Examination 2, covering a specialized disciplinary area related to the student's dissertation topic, is a take-home written examination to be completed within a time frame (up to one semester) set by the student's faculty advisor. The topics and texts to be covered by the two examinations and the examination questions are determined by each student's advisor in consultation with the student who will be examined. All Certification Examinations are overseen by the Office of Doctoral Studies and are scheduled for administration on specified dates during the year, usually in October, February and June. Students must register for a Certification Exam at least one month before the examination will be administered. Students become eligible to register for Certification Examinations when their signed approval form for the 5504 Research Paper has been filed in the English Education Program office.

Dissertation Proposal (A&HE 7504)

The doctoral dissertation proposal consolidates the work candidates have done in courses, professional reading, and the two certification examinations. It is usually a 60 to 100-page document, which outlines a coherent account of the work a candidate wants to undertake for dissertation research, usually presenting drafts of early chapters for the dissertation. Typically a proposal includes an introductory chapter describing the origins and aims of the project, a fairly complete review of the literature, a chapter on research methods, and some preliminary data and data analysis. The dissertation proposal must be accepted at a formal or informal hearing where at least two faculty members function as examiners. Students may not undertake the dissertation proposal until both Certification exams have been completed successfully.

Dissertation

The doctoral dissertation is the culminating research project of the doctoral program and constitutes a significant contribution to knowledge in the field of English Education. As candidates write their dissertations, they must enroll in A&HE 8904: Dissertation Advisement in Teaching English, which is designed to help them refine their thinking and revise their writing as they complete successive drafts of their dissertation.

Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense offers the opportunity for members of the candidate's dissertation committee, all of whom have carefully read the dissertation, to interrogate the candidate on any and all dimensions of the candidate's research and the written dissertation that is the product of that research. In most cases the committee will suggest minor revisions that the candidate is expected to incorporate into the dissertation before filing the final version. A typical defense, however, is less an interrogation than it is a collegial discussion of the candidate's research project and findings with attention to next steps in the candidate's research agenda and possibilities for revising and publishing the dissertation or sections of it. A successful dissertation defense marks both a moment of certification and a ritual initiation. At the conclusion of a successful defense, authorized doctoral faculty officially certify a candidate's accomplishment in completing a major research study that makes a significant contribution to knowledge in the field of English education broadly defined and thereby welcome the doctoral candidate into the community of scholars.

Students working toward an Ed.D.C.T. degree (90 credits) may transfer a maximum of 45 credits and will thus complete at least 45 credits while in the Ed.D.C.T. English program.

Coursework Restrictions

An academic advisor must approve all coursework in a student's program plan including any exceptions to the following:

5504 project, and have familiarized themselves with some of the available research literature on the topic or problem they propose to investigate. The research paper completed in A&HE 5504 allows a doctoral student to demonstrate the capacity to complete independent research and produce a research paper at a level of sophistication that promises success in undertaking a doctoral research project and doctoral dissertation. The completed A&HE 5504 research paper must therefore be approved by two faculty members as qualifying the student to proceed to the next milestone in the doctoral program, the Certification Examinations.

The Advanced Seminar

What is known historically as the Advanced Seminar now functions as a pre-defense meeting of an Ed.D.C.T candidate's doctoral dissertation committee, which convenes to interrogate and advise the candidate on the dissertation in progress in order to ensure its successful completion. The committee may be convened at any point in a candidate's progress toward completing the dissertation research but is ordinarily convened for English education candidates at a point when the candidate can present a rough draft of the entire dissertation for scrutiny by the dissertation committee members.

Students may also satisfy the requirement for research methods courses by completing approved courses in other programs and departments across the College.

Credit Requirements and Transfer Credits for the Ph.D. in English Education

The number of courses students take depends in part on the number of credits students transfer from previous graduate work. Students working toward the Ph.D. degree (75 credits) may transfer a maximum of 30 credits and will thus complete at least 45 credits while in the Ph.D. program.

Coursework Restrictions

An academic advisor must approve all coursework in a student's program plan, especially to ensure enforcement of the following College and Departmental policies:

Foreign Language Requirement

Candidates for the Ph.D. degree in English education must demonstrate reading proficiency in at least one foreign language at a level of competence sufficient to read scholarly or professional work relevant to their own field of study. This requirement may be satisfied through a proficiency examination administered by a foreign language program or department in the Columbia Graduate School of Arts & Sciences or by the satisfactory completion (with a grade of B or above) of a Columbia University course designed to certify language proficiency or by a comparable course (with a grade of B or above) offered by another college or university and approved by the appropriate foreign language department at Columbia. Courses in statistics or other past substitutes for a foreign language will not be accepted.

Award of the Master of Philosophy (M.Phil.) degree

Students become eligible to apply for the Master of Philosophy (M.Phil.) degree upon completing 75 credits of coursework and fulfilling each of the previous doctoral program milestones. Upon being awarded the M.Phil. degree, doctoral students become “candidates” for the Ph.D. degree. Applications for the M.Phil. degree can be filed with the Office of Doctoral Studies.

Dissertation

The doctoral dissertation is the culminating research project of the doctoral program and constitutes a significant contribution to knowledge in the field of English Education. The committee may be convened at any point in a candidate's progress toward completing the dissertation research, but is ordinarily convened for English education candidates at a point when the candidate can present a rough draft of the entire dissertation for scrutiny by the dissertation committee members. The committee is convened in response to a formal request filed with the Office of Doctoral Studies (ODS) by the candidate with the approval of the dissertation advisor. Candidates should consult the ODS early in the dissertation project to ensure that all procedural rules for convening the Advanced Seminar and reporting on its deliberations are properly observed.

Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense offers the opportunity for members of the candidate's dissertation committee, all of whom have carefully read the dissertation, to interrogate the candidate on any and all dimensions of the candidate's research and the written dissertation that is the product of that research. Application Information

Prior to or concurrent with enrollment in the M.A. Program, applicants must have completed at least 30 undergraduate and/or graduate credits in English or related fields. Under the general rubric of English, qualified coursework in such related fields as Journalism, Drama, Comparative Literature, Philosophy, Speech, Film Studies, Linguistics, and Classics is counted toward fulfilling this requirement. Please note that 6 of these credits can be completed as part of the requirements for the M.A. degree. In reviewing applications for admission, the admissions committee considers the evidence available in letters of recommendation (particularly those from college professors), the personal statement, the academic record of the applicant, and the applicant's experience working with adolescents and young adults

In addition to the general Teachers College admission requirements, Ed.M. applicants are required to submit a writing sample and two letters of recommendation. A third letter is encouraged. Also, applicants to this degree ordinarily already possess an M.A. in English, education, or a related field and have at least three years of teaching experience at the secondary level.

In addition to the general Teachers College admission requirements, applicants to the doctoral programs in English Education are required to submit three letters of recommendation. Letters from college professors that can speak to an applicant's potential as a scholar and researcher are especially valued. Additionally, applicants to the doctoral programs in English Education usually already possess an M.A. in English, education, or a related field and have five or more years of classroom teaching experience.

Program Description

The Program in History and Education is one of the oldest at Teachers College, the history of education having been one of the first components of the university study of education. Many of the earliest doctoral dissertations at Teachers College dealt with historical subjects, even in the case of students aspiring to careers in curriculum, guidance, and administration.

The program prepares people to teach in graduate schools of education, undergraduate departments of education, departments of history, theological seminaries, or other academic institutions, and to work as research scholars in institutes, government bureaus, or social service agencies where a deep understanding of education in historical perspective is essential.

The program addresses important educational questions first, by examining the ideas, individuals, and institutions of the past to determine their influence on their own times and second, by bringing historical knowledge and perspective to bear on current educational issues. The program offers courses covering the educational history of America, urban areas, women, immigrants, and African-Americans.

The program is open to students of broad and diverse backgrounds who can give evidence of academic competence and personal qualities suggesting high probability of professional success. Each student in the program is expected to take courses in the history of education, as well as in the more generalized fields of social, political, and cultural history. Students can also take subject matter courses in cognate areas aimed at

Master of Education (60 points)

Description: The Master of Education degree (Ed.M.) in Music and Music Education is an advanced professional degree for practitioners in music education that is designed to prepare graduates for careers in elementary schools, secondary schools, and colleges. It is awarded upon satisfactory completion of 60 points of graduate study. Major emphasis is placed on the improvement of instruction and curriculum. Candidates who show clear promise of success in further graduate study may apply for the doctoral program.

Curriculum: The general course requirement is a minimum of 60 graduate semester hours, 30 points of which may be transferred from graduate coursework at another institution. Transferable credits are determined by the Registrar's office. Candidates who have earned a Master of Arts degree from Teachers College must complete at least 45 of the 60 graduate points at Teachers College.

Programs of study and courses for the degree are divided into four general areas. A program of study should reflect a balance of courses in these areas: (1) Pedagogy, (2) Research, (3) Music Literacies, and (4) Music Performance.

Non-Departmental Requirements: In addition to the music program courses, each candidate is expected to complete three courses for a minimum of 8 points from outside the Programs in Music Education (A&HM). These electives are to be selected from areas deemed appropriate in consultation with the faculty advisor. A&H 4003, 5001, and 5002 can count as music electives but cannot be used to fulfill the College's Breadth requirement.

Graduation Requirements: Candidates for the Ed.M. degree must complete a scholarly paper demonstrating their ability to synthesize research. the following four broad areas: (1) Pedagogy, (2) Research, (3) Comprehensive Musicianship, and (4) Music Performance. Refer to the catalog for course listings under these general headings.

The preparation and the defense of a dissertation is required for the doctoral degree. When writing the dissertation, each candidate has a sponsor and an additional committee member. A&HM 4033 Approaches to teaching musical instruments (Pedagogy) This course will examine teaching and learning in the context of instrumental music. It will serve as an overview of theoretical and philosophical constructs of instrumental music pedagogy. The resulting practices inform our knowledge of teaching through the process of learning instruments in a small group setting. Focus will be on the years students typically begin the learning of wind, brass, and percussion instruments in schools, around the age of 10, through intermediate and advanced levels in middle and high school. Fundamental to our approach will be the development of lesson planning that puts the student at the center of her learning experiences. Not content with the traditional master/apprentice model, we will seek opportunities to improvise and create, allowing students even in the early stages to assume some degree of control over how they make music and what they choose to play. Questioning techniques in the instrumental lesson setting will encourage reflection on action that results in a broadening, not just of skills, but of the kind of reflective thought that is at the heart of educative experiences. Activities and projects in class will center around developing appropriately sequenced lesson plans, understanding the unique characteristics of instruments of various families, and put all class members in the dual role of teacher and student.

Program Description

This program has shaped the historical course of philosophy of education in America. From the groundbreaking work of John Dewey and William Heard Kilpatrick to the achievements of their most recent successors, Jonas Soltis and Maxine Greene, the program's philosopher-scholars have been leaders in the field. The Philosophy and Education Program offers students a unique opportunity to develop their humanistic and critical thinking about education.

Faculty and students in the program devote this thinking to a wide variety of questions, including:

- What visions of the human being animate contemporary schooling?
- How can education be a force for social reform?
- What is the role of aesthetic experience and the imagination in education?
- What type of education befits a multi-cultural society?
- What is the nature of the teacher-student relationship?

Other areas of interest include:

- The education of democratic citizens
- Moral education
- Critical thinking
- Education and technology
- The ethics of teaching

The Philosophy and Education Program provides an opportunity for educators to broaden and deepen their understanding of the processes and aims of education through inquiry into the fields of aesthetics, ethics and moral philosophy, social and political philosophy, and epistemology and the philosophy of science. Study of a variety of historical and conceptual frameworks enables students to develop theoretical perspectives on education and to effectively analyze and critique arguments in contemporary educational debates.

Recent dissertations include studies of equity in access to education, Nietzsche's conception of education, the ethics of school choice, cosmopolitanism and education, the nature of authentic learning, Matthew Arnold's conception of liberal education, and human rights education in light of Kant's moral philosophy.

Each student takes responsibility, in consultation with his or her advisor, for designing a course of study that will meet the program requirements while catering to the individual's interests and professional goals.

Exact requirements vary for each doctoral program. For example, students in the Ed.D. program will also develop a minor in an educational field such as educational policy, curriculum theory, or comparative education.

At the center of that course of study are the program's research and professional development curriculum and other classes in philosophy and education. In addition to the required 36 points in Philosophy and Education courses, students are also required to do coursework in the following areas: 9 points of philosophy through the Columbia Philosophy Department or Inter-University Doctoral Consortium, foundations of education, and educational breadth. These requirements are modest, leaving room for students to craft a personalized course of study. Additionally, 18 points in the Philosophy and Education requirements are in the program's professional development sequence.

Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D., 75 points)

The Doctor of Philosophy degree program is flexible and responsive to individual student backgrounds and needs. Each student takes responsibility, in consultation with his or her advisor, for designing a course of study that will meet the program requirements while catering to the individual's interests and professional goals.

At the center of that course of study are the program's research and professional development curriculum and other classes in philosophy and education. In addition to the required 36 points in Philosophy and Education courses, students are also required to do coursework in the following areas: 12 points in philosophy, through the Columbia Philosophy Department or Inter-University Doctoral Consortium, foundations of education, and educational breadth. These requirements are modest, leaving room for students to craft a personalized course of study. Students should also contact the Office of Doctoral Studies about university and college-wide requirements, procedures, and deadlines for doctoral students. The doctoral programs require students to demonstrate reading proficiency in one of the following languages: French, German, Greek, or Latin. In rare cases, such as for writing the dissertation, another language can be approved in consultation with program faculty.

Program Description

The Social Studies Program is rooted in a diverse set of humanities and social sciences, from history and political science to geography and sociology, with a particular focus on making this subject matter resonant in the lives of young people. The program examines the many contexts in which social studies education is enacted and relies upon deep theorizing and engaged practice in the realms of curriculum and pedagogy. We recognize the importance of the urban context in which we are situated and work to serve this vibrant city, particularly historically marginalized students within it, as we recognize the globally interdependent nature of education.

Social studies educators must have a deep understanding of various fields and be thoughtfully engaged in teaching, cognizant of the diverse and fluid needs of students, and alive to the interplay of various contexts that shape and inform social studies education. The program prepares students for professional lives in schools, universities, and allied institutions. The faculty's experience as teachers and engagement as scholars in fields like history, civics, economics, geography, and social studies are well suited to that purpose. These strengths, along with the resources of Teachers College and Columbia University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, are available to every student.

Application Information

Applicants should indicate on the specialization section of the application whether they wish to pursue teacher certification.

The Master of Arts (38-point program) provides an avenue for New York State Initial Certification. The Master of Arts (32-point program including INSTEP) provides an avenue for Professional Certification in New York State and is designed for experienced teachers and those teaching in private schools.

Applicants to the Master of Arts programs must have taken at least 21 credits in history by the time they complete the M.A. program if they wish to be certified in New York State. Additional coursework is needed in the social sciences (political science, geography, economics, etc.). Those courses that are not listed under a history department, but have substantial history content, may be counted toward the minimum history requirement.

Applicants to the Master of Education (Ed.M.) degree should be aware that the program generally admits students only after several years of teaching or related professional experience and completion of an M.A. degree in Social Studies education or an appropriate content field. Admission requirements in terms of undergraduate background are the same as the M.A., and the degree does not lead to teacher certification in New York.

An M.A. degree in an appropriate content field or in Social Studies education and several years of teaching experience are generally required for applicants to the Doctor of Education and Doctor of Philosophy degree programs. In addition to the Teachers College admission requirements, doctoral applicants must submit a writing sample and recommendations written by persons qualified to address their potential for doctoral-level work. If the applicant will be in or near New York City, an interview is highly recommended.

All inquiries about the Program in Social Studies should be directed to the Program Coordinator, Professor William Gaudelli, Box 80, Teachers College; telephone: (212) 678-3150; email: gaudelli@tc.edu.

Course List

A&HW 4005 Sustainability and the Social Studies

This course examines the ways in which such scientific issues can be incorporated into school curricula as issues of civic education. Particular attention will be paid to mitigation and adaptation efforts that are currently underway in classrooms across the U.S. as well as the interdisciplinary nature of sustainability education.

A&HW 4010 Social Inquiry

Engaging students in inquiry is the gold standard for content-based learning, yet one rarely achieved or regularly practiced. One reason for its relative absence in classrooms is the lack of experience teachers themselves have either doing or generating inquiries. This course invites all current Masters and Doctoral students to engage in a series of inquiries about Teachers College, exploring the question—What does Teachers College teach?—as a physical place, as an historical place, aesthetic space, as a narrative space, and finally, as an educational and pedagogical space.

A&HW 4032 The Study of World History and Geography
